

Dear Cherry Platts,

We hope that you have had a good week.

We have seen lots of beautiful work on the first part of the Science Project and we are so pleased that you are enjoying the topic. This week, you should be on your way with the second part of your Science project and we look forward to seeing the photos.

The English this week is revising the features of journalistic writing and then writing your own news story. For the first activity of spotting the features, please use either a paper you might have at home or one of the texts supplied. The texts are differentiated and one of them also has comprehension questions if you would like to have an extra activity. There is then a separate sheet with the planning outline and success criteria to start you on your own story. If you would prefer to write a news story about something that interests you, then still use the planning sheet to see what you need to include.

Alongside this English and Science, please continue to complete:

- Maths - online work with White Rose Maths
- Spellings – PowerPoint, Word Search and a list of words using the –ere spelling
- Work on TT Rockstars to get your times tables up to speed.
- Daily reading to an adult, including some time with them questioning you about the text.
- D&T – We have set some design and create activities this week – we hope you enjoy them.

Please also remember the great resources on Nessy for you to have a look at.

If you have any questions, then please don't hesitate to mail them to us.

Take care and stay safe.

Best wishes,

Mrs Kretschmer and Mrs Morris ☺
